Healthy Children Program Summaries

Breastfeeding Promotion

In 2004, the Children and Families Commission launched the Breastfeeding Initiative as part of the Bridges for Newborns program, with the goal of improving the exclusive breastfeeding rate in Orange County. Each Bridges Screener is required to have a minimum of eight hours of breastfeeding training, provided through a seminar coordinated by the Hospital Association of Southern California (HASC). In 2006-07 over 50 providers received this training. Additionally, HASC distributes the Orange County Breastfeeding Resource Guide through 11 hospitals, Public Health Nursing, home visitation services, and Family Resource Centers. This resource guide is available in English, Spanish and Vietnamese.

Home Visitation Collaborative

The Commission funds seven home visitation programs, each serving a unique portion of the 0-5 population. Together these programs bring vital services to the doorstep of some of Orange County's most vulnerable children. Home visitation teams are multi-disciplinary, including nurses, promotoras, therapists, and social workers made up from a collaborative of community based organizations, the Health Care Agency, and hospitals. They meet quarterly to share best practices, sponsor joint trainings, and conduct critical program planning. In FY 2006-07, over 6,200 children and families received intensive home visitation services.

- Paso a Paso promotes the health and well being of low-income pregnant women by providing monthly home visits during the pregnancy and up to the baby's first birthday.
- Nurse Family Partnership is an intensive home visitation program for teens and young women under 24 who are pregnant for the first time.
- Perinatal Substance Abuse Services Initiative/Assessment and Coordination Team is a case management program for substance abusing and/or HIV infected pregnant women and their families.
- Project Connections FRC. Health Access provides short term home visitation services (1-3 visits) in order to improve the immunization status, health insurance enrollment and linkage to a medical home. Outreach workers are located at eight Family Resource Centers across the county.
- Bridges for Newborns Home Visitation clients receive an average of 10 visits during the baby's first year of life. Each client receives a different level of care, based on needs identified at the Bridges-affiliated birthing hospital.
- Bridges for Medically High Risk Newborns provides Public Health Nursing home visitation services to medically fragile infants until they reach 24 months of age.
- Orange County Home Visiting Collaborative provides intensive home visitation, parent education, and in-home mental health counseling services for at-risk families, through the Orange County Child Abuse Prevention Center and the Children's Bureau of Southern California.

Help Me Grow

By building a network of partners serving children 0 - 5 years of age, and maintaining a current inventory of behavioral, developmental and educational resources, Help Me Grow provides a single point of access to child development services for Orange County families and professionals. By calling the toll free number (866) GROW025, families are connected to community services to enhance the overall development of their children. Nearly 1,000 families were served by Help Me Grow in 2006-07.
